

Public Health Workforce Study: Mental Health and Intention to Leave During COVID-19

We are conducting a research study to understand the nature and extent of mental health impacts and intention to leave among the public health workforce in Canada during COVID-19.

We are looking for public health professionals and workers:

- who have worked in a public health unit or regional health authority in Canada prior to March 2020 and during the COVID-19 pandemic
- in full or part-time positions

Participation will include:

- completion of a one-time anonymous online survey (~15 minutes to complete)

CLICK HERE FOR CONSENT FORM AND SURVEY QUESTIONS

This project is supported by the Canadian Institutes of Health Research (CIHR).

To learn more about our study, please contact Carolyn Seale at:

sealec@mcmaster.ca

This study has been reviewed by the Hamilton Integrated Research Ethics Board Project #150